JOY MORTON'S CHARGES.

He says an Effort Is Being Made to Throttle the Salt Industry.

CHICAGO, May 20 .- Joy Morton, president of the International Salt Company. to-day declared before the Interstate-commerce Commission that the attack which it was making on his company was solely an attempt on the part of Detroit sait interests to secure the aid of the government in throttling the salt industry of Chicago. The hearing was a continuation of the case brougth against the railroads calling in question the division of the through salt from Manistee and Ludington to Chicago, destined to Missouri river points, the allegation being that it amounted to a rebate paid to the "Salt Trust," which controls the transportation company. At the conclusion of his testimony he arose and dramatically drew from his pocket a prospectus of the Michigan Rock Salt Company. This company, he asserted, was projected by the complaining witness, J. M. Mulkey, of Detroit, who was trying to use the commission to aid in floating $600,000 worth of preferred and $2,000,000 worth of common stock. Further atack was made on Mulkey's motive in an attempt to show that he had sold out his salt interest to the trust on two occasions, and was trying to do the same again.

Moses Fowler Chase's Case.

Special to the Indianapolis Journal. LAFAYETTE, Ind., May 20 .- Bills of exception were filed to-day by attorneys for Moses Fowler Chase, representing the Duhmes, on two rulings of Judge DeHart. One of the bills is an exception to the everruling by the court of a motion for continuance and the other is to the refusal to grant the application to set aside the service of process and abate the action. Both points were raised in the case a week ago, and the attorneys were given the privilege of filing a bill. The documents are long, and will be used in making up the record of the case. The attorneys are still in Cincinnati taking depositions.

IN MEMORY OF THE DEAD.

Exercises Held at the Annual Reunion of Ex-Confederates.

NEW ORLEANS, May 20 .- To-day's session of the Confederate reunion closed with a prayer. The first words of the petition for divine guidance and blessing were spoken by the chaplain, while the echoes of "taps," the most sad and yet the most beautiful of all bugle calls, was yet quivering in the air, for this was the day, a portion of which had been set apart for services in honor of the hero dead of the Confederate cause. The memorial services were opened promptly at 12 o'clock by General Gordon, who said: "And now, my comrades, the appointed time has come for the services in honor of our immortal dead-and for the opening of these exercises, I believe, we should give thanks to Almighty God for the lives they lived and ask his benediction for them and us for the time to come. I am going to ask General Young, of Kentucky, to lead us in prayer.' General Young delivered an eloquent vocation and was followed by Gen. J. A. Challaron, who raised a eulogy on the late adjutant general of the United Confederate Veterans, George Moorman, of New Orleans. General Cabell followed a brief address, in which he paid a warm tribute to the late adjutant general. The resolutions were adopted by a silent rising

General Gordon then introduced Rev. J. . Finley, of Fisherville, Va., who delivered the annual memorial sermon. It was a strong address, fervid in its patriotism, replete with loving words for the dead. "The Vacant Chair" was played softly by the band and then "taps" was blown. A short prayer by Chaplain General Jones brought the memorial exercises to a close, and an adjournment was then taken until

When the merry monarch, Charles II of England, the ruler of whom it was report-ed that he never said a foolish thing and never did a wise one, was lingering in his last illness, with exquisite courtesy he begged his courtiers to excuse him for taking so long a time in dying. Colonel Bryan should meditate over this example. Fatally stricken in politics, he delays the signing of his last political will and testament for an unconscionably long period.
